

Equipped with health and strength, we need not fear
 Life's battle in Vermont, although she's rough;
 Those qualities we all need anywhere,
 Whatever gives them not, gives not enough.

Ungrateful we should never be, indeed,
 To those who donned the blue at duty's call.
 The nation borrowed them for time of need,
 But when the need was past, returned not all.

Some, with devotion that we well may prize,
 Believing all men should like brothers be,
 With worthy spirit of self-sacrifice,
 Have shortened life in toil beyond the sea.

May each one here today, or old or young,
 Draw lessons from the past and con them well;
 And in the future, with both pen and tongue,
 The story glad of God's great good next tell.

When other hundred years have rolled away,
 And each been added to eternity,
 When Waitsfield's people gather that glad day,
 To celebrate another century,

May that dear flag, our own Red, White and Blue,
 In freedom float o'er faces just as fair,
 O'er homes as happy and o'er hearts as true,
 As e'er have fallen to our century's share.

Not ours, dear friends, to mingle in that throng,
 But on a brighter and far happier shore,
 We'll raise our voices in triumphant song,
 Where centuries are counted never more.

GENEALOGIES OF WAITSFIELD FAMILIES.

Throughout these records it has been the general intention to begin the record with the emigrant ancestor or with the earliest known generation. In the case of families not now resident in Waitsfield, whose record may be found in print elsewhere, only the briefest mention is made of the generations preceding the first of the name to settle in Waitsfield.

The arrangement follows closely that adopted by the New England Historic Genealogical Society. The numeral preceding the name of each head of a family refers back to the immediate ancestor, in the list of whose children the same person is designated by the same number at the left of the Roman numeral used to indicate the number of children in each family.

The Christian names numbered in order and found in parenthesis after the name of a head of a family denote the direct ancestral line, the generations being given in consecutive order and the number 1 given to the emigrant ancestor, or if he is unknown, to the earliest known ancestor.

Free use has been made of certain abbreviations, chiefly the following:
